This charge will appear on the cardholders credit card statement as "Leemore & Associates". Many applicants are not aware of the company that performs their appraisal and it is important that they recognize this charge. Our concern is that with so much identity theft, people will be reviewing their credit card statements with more scrutiny. Our company is accepting payment by credit card as a convenience to our clients, however, our preference is always to have the broker/lender pay us for the appraisal and be reimbursed by their client at closing. If, however, the charge is reversed at a later date by the applicant, it is our policy to then reissue the invoice directly to the lender/broker for payment of the full amount along with an additional service charge.
